

Arthur and Mrs. Montague Page 53-54

MRS. MONTAGUE – Arthur, you read the questions and I'll read the answers.

ARTHUR – Off we go. Now – let me see – start right about here?

MRS. MONTAGUE – With “Who are you?”

ARTHUR – Check. “Who are you?”

MRS. MONTAGUE – “Nell.”

ELEANOR – Nell who?

MRS. MONTAGUE – Eleanor Nellie Nell Nell. They sometimes do that. Repeat a word over and over to make sure it comes across all right. Go on.

ARTHUR – “What do you want?”

MRS. MONTAGUE – “Home.”

ARTHUR – “Do you want to go home?”

MRS. MONTAGUE – “Want to be home.”

ARTHUR – “What are you doing here?”

MRS. MONTAGUE – “Waiting.”

ARTHUR – “Waiting for what?”

MRS. MONTAGUE – “Home.”

ARTHUR – There it is again. If they like a word they use it over and over, just for the sound of it.

MRS. MONTAGUE – Ordinarily we never ask why. It tends to confuse planchette. But this time we were bold, and came right out with it. Arthur?

ARTHUR – “Why?”

MRS. MONTAGUE – “Mother.”

ARTHUR – “Is Hill House your home?”

MRS. MONTAGUE – “Home.”

ARTHUR – “Are you suffering?”

MRS. MONTAGUE – No answer here. Sometimes they dislike admitting to pain.

ARTHUR – Stoical. “Can we help you.?”

MRS. MONTAGUE – “No. Lost. Lost. Lost.”
